

FAQS

WHY DO YOU SELL OUT OF FOOD?

We are a small batch operation and we pride ourselves on doing BBQ the traditional way. That means serving fresh food daily. We follow a "pit to plate" philosophy and we don't reheat our meats.

THE MEAT IS PINK. IS IT UNDERCOOKED?

The pink hue that often accompanies BBQ is called the smoke ring. It's an indication of the chemical reactions that take place when the meat is exposed to real live fire smoke during the cooking process.

WHAT KIND OF WOOD DO YOU USE?

We burn 100% oak in our smoker. We believe the tannins, sugars, and other compounds present in a log of oak help to create the best possible flavor and appearance for our food. Wood is our key ingredient.

DO YOU FOLLOW A SPECIFIC REGIONAL STYLE?

While our primary influence is Texas, we have the benefit of not being forced to adhere to rigid regional expectations. Our ribs are a modified Memphis style. Our pulled pork is heavily influenced by the Eastern Carolina style. The brisket, sliced turkey, and sausage are all Texas favorites.
